

There currently isn't a good, automated way to format zines on Linux systems. Tools exist for Windows but they don't run on Linux well. I want a way to automate the placement of text and images on documents and a way to select the correct printing settings once the document is complete.